Visit our library and view an interesting doll collection from the estate of Trudy Langford, mother of Melody Burton, a Pottsboro resident and library volunteer. These dolls are souvenir dolls, or national costume dolls. They are also known as folk dolls, made of local materials like corn husks or sea shells.

While some collectors don't consider them as valuable, they are important. They are goodwill ambassadors that delight, and at the same time, break down prejudice and stereotypes. We know how other people dress and live because of their dolls and the dolls' costumes.

Melody said, "My mother's souvenir dolls opened my eyes to the world of travel and collecting. I guess that is why I have a few cherished collections in my own home, although I haven't traveled the world like my parents."

We invite you to come to the library to enjoy the dolls. Let us know if you have a collection you would like to display, too. It is, after all, a small, small world!

THE LIGHTS ARE ON!

We are so grateful to GREGG & VIRGIE HOLBROOK and GALEN & BRENDA HOLLAR for their very generous donations of money and lighting fixtures, for both inside and outside the library.

This is a huge improvement for our library and the brightness really makes a difference in a comfortable reading atmosphere as well as safety outside. JB Electric installed for us. We will save energy too! Our sincere thanks.
